SPONSORSHIP OPPORTUNITY

GREEN SOAPBOX
MARCH 27, 2025 | CHICAGO

Impact of your sponsorship

Through our work, Delta Institute benefits more than five million Midwesterners by transitioning one million acres to conservation-focused practices, and by improving water quality and reducing flooding by capturing 100 million stormwater gallons. By 2025 we will achieve these goals through our agriculture, climate, water, and community development projects.

GREEN SOAPBOX: CLIMATE REFUGEES

CRITICAL CLIMATE CONVERSATIONS

For years, Delta Institute has hosted “Green Soapbox” as an opportunity to host expert panelists in discussing a wide variety of issues impacting our local community - topics like air quality, regional infrastructure, city resilience, and more. This annual panel discussion, organized by the Delta Emerging Leaders Associate Board, and its a great opportunity to learn, engage in the conversation, and connect with others.

This year's event will explore the topic of Climate Refugees, including what role the Midwest may place in migration resettlement going forward.

Expert Perspectives on Climate Issues

Since 2011, Delta Institute has hosted dozens of speakers from diverse backgrounds to explore the most pressing climate issues impacting our region. Recent speakers have included:

- Representatives from WBEZ, Chicago's NPR affiliate,
- Chief Resilience Officers from cities like Flint and Minneapolis,
- Environmental leaders from community-based organizations like Blacks in Green, Grow Greater Englewood, Southeast Environmental Task Force,
- Commissioners from the Metropolitan Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago,
- Industry experts from agencies like the EPA and Chicago's Department of Environment, and
- Many more advocates from the public, private, and nonprofit sectors across the Midwest!
